THE COLLEGE OF LAW

ANNOUNCEMENT OF SUMMER TERM

The sixth regular summer term of the Cornell University College of Law will open Tuesday, July 5, 1898, at 9 A. M., and continue for six weeks, ending Saturday, August 13. Instruction will be given by three members of the resident Faculty.

ADMISSION

The courses offered are open to all persons who may desire to take advantage of them ; no preliminary examination for admission is required.

It has been found by experience that the summer courses are of special advantage to the following classes of persons : First, those who are preparing for bar examinations in New York or elsewhere.¹ Such students, whether they have pursued their previous studies in a law school or in an office, find it very helpful to have a comprehensive and systematic review of the main branches of the law before presenting themselves for admission to the bar. The needs of such students are kept constantly in view. Second, those who desire an outline survey of the general field of law, together with a discussion of the leading principles, authorities and cases, before entering upon the more detailed study required for admission to the bar. It is believed that this class of students will find their subsequent labors much simplified by this preliminary outlook. Third, students in this or other law schools who wish to review the main subjects of their course before presenting themselves for their final examinations. Fourth, young attorneys who feel a need for further preparation and desire to spend a summer vacation in systematic study.

(1) "Of the 1,050 examined, 793 had had training in a law school, while 257 had had only experience in an office. Of the 793 who had attended law schools, 116, or about 14 per cent. failed to pass one or more times. Of the 257 who had not attended a law school, 68, or about 26 per cent. failed to pass one or more times."—Austin G. Fox, of the N. Y. State Board of Law Examiners, in a paper read before the American Bar Association, at Saratoga, August, 1896.

"The only source of regret developed by our work is to be found in the comparative weakness of the students who come to the bar through the law office. * * * Observation shows that under modern conditions existing in the profession, an education in law cannot be procured exclusively in a law office, and that those who have had the benefit of a law school training are better equipped to enter upon their career, and are more likely to succeed therein, than those who come to the bar through an office."—Franklin N. Danaher, of the N. Y. State Board of Law Examiners, in a paper read before the N. Y. State Bar Association, at Albany, January, 1897.

COURSES OFFERED

The following regular courses are given during the summer term and all students registered in the school are entitled, upon the payment of the uniform term fee, to instruction in all of the courses :

| 8. REAL PROPERTY. | |
| 9. WILLS. | |

Special courses in other subjects will be given if a sufficient number of students make application for any one course. Such additional courses will be conducted with special reference to the needs of students preparing for the bar examinations, but no student will be admitted to a special course who is not registered for the regular work. For each extra course of twelve lectures or conferences an additional fee of $5 will be charged.

HOURS AND METHODS OF INSTRUCTION

The regular class-room work, covering the nine general courses, will occupy three hours each day (9-12 A. M.) except Sunday, making one hundred and five hours for the term. The additional special courses will be arranged to suit the convenience of the section interested. The method of instruction is by lectures, supplemented by an examination and discussion of leading and illustrative cases and by collateral reading of selected texts. Students are not required to purchase text-books.

LIBRARIES

The Law Library of the college contains about 26,000 volumes. It includes the extensive library of the late Nathaniel C. Moak, of Albany, N. Y., which was recently purchased and presented to the College as a memorial to the first Dean, the Honorable Douglass Boardman, by his widow, Mrs. A. M. Boardman, and his daughter, Mrs. Ellen D. Williams. Beside a large collection of text-books, the library contains all of the reports of every State in the Union, all of the Federal reports, all of the English reports, and the Irish, Scotch and Canadian reports, the Australian, New Zealand and Hawaiian reports, complete sets of all the leading periodicals, a complete set of the United States Statutes and the Statutes of all of the States. The library is also rich in sets of leading cases and in specialties, for example, in medical jurisprudence, patent law, mining law, admiralty and insurance law. The Moak collection, added to the original one, gives to this College of Law library facilities which are second to none in the country.

The books of the Law Library will, during library hours, from 8 A. M. to 6 P. M., be immediately accessible to students attending the summer term. The general library of the University, containing over one hundred and fifty thousand volumes, will also be open to summer students in the college of Law.

LAW COLLEGE BUILDING

The Law College Building (Boardman Hall), is located directly opposite the general library building. It is a large three-story structure, the extreme dimensions being 202 by 58 feet, is built of Cleveland sandstone and is practically fire-proof. The matter of ventilation has received careful attention. The interior finish is oak. On the first floor are three large lecture rooms and the necessary halls and cloak-rooms. On the second floor are seminary rooms and the offices of the several resident professors. On the third floor are the law-library rooms, which have accommodations for 30,000 volumes and 300 readers. These rooms are elegantly furnished and thoroughly well lighted. The building throughout is complete in all its appointments, and admirably adapted for law-school work.

LOCATION, EXPENSES, ETC.

The city of Ithaca has a population of about 12,000, and is delightfully located in the beautiful lake region of Central New York. The University occupies high ground above the city and overlooking Cayuga Lake. The views from the campus are unsurpassed. The facilities for boating and athletic exercises are all that could be desired. The campus, the athletic field and the lake are connected by an electric road. The place is a most attractive one for a summer residence and an ideal one for summer study. The cost of living is small. During the summer board and rooms can be had at from $4 to $6 a week. Inquiries regarding board and rooms may be addressed to the Secretary of the Cornell Christian Association, Barnes Hall, who will assist students in finding rooms and boarding places.

Ithaca may be reached from New York, Philadelphia or Buffalo via either the Lehigh Valley Railroad or the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad; from Syracuse (on the New York Central Railroad) via the Auburn branch of the Lehigh Valley Railroad; from Canastota (on the New York Central Railroad) and from Elmira (on the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad) via the Elmira and Cortland branch of the Lehigh Valley Railroad; from Cayuga (on New York Central Railroad) via boat.

TUITION FEES

The tuition fee for the term of six weeks, comprising one hundred and five hours of instruction, is $35 payable in advance at Room 5, Boardman Hall. This is the only fee charged for the regular work and entitles the student to all the privileges of the school for the term. For each extra course of twelve hours in special subjects, where not less than twelve students attend, the fee is $5. No students will be admitted to special courses except those in attendance upon the regular work.

Students should first register at Room 5, Boardman Hall, on Tuesday, July 5, at 8 A. M. The first lecture will be given in Room A, Boardman Hall, on Tuesday, July 5, at 9 A. M. Tuition is payable on the day of registration up to 5 P. M.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY SUMMER SCHOOL

JULY 5—AUGUST 13, 1898

Courses of instruction are offered by professors and instructors of the University in the following departments.

Comparative Philology,	Philosophy,	Botany,
Greek,	Elocution,	Drawing and Art,
Latin,	Mathematics,	Mechanical Drawing
German,	Physics,	and Designing,
Romance Languages,	Chemistry,	Experimental Engineering.

The Summer School is open to women as well as to men, and the same facilities for work are extended to its students as to regular students of the University. Without excluding others qualified to take up the work, these courses are offered for the special benefit of teachers and advanced students. They afford an opportunity for teachers themselves to be taught under university instructors, by university methods, and with access to university libraries, museums and laboratories.

Students of the Summer School not matriculated in the University may receive certificates of attendance and satisfactory work, duly signed by their instructors and by the President of the University.

For circulars containing full information concerning the above courses, including fees, expense of living, etc., write to the Secretary, A. F. WEBER, Ithaca, N. Y.
